

1

Go around the table clockwise, taking turns reading these cards aloud.

2

The City you live in is a place of wonders and dangers.

3

The leaders of the City have become aware of a rising threat, unlike any the City has faced before.

4

The City has chosen you, a group of supers, to team up and face this threat.

5

The City chose you because she knows that you love her.

6

You are welcome to look through the City cards for inspiration. If one seems right, place it on the table to inspire your story.

7

When you've read the instruction cards, continue clockwise with the prompt cards. Take turns reading the questions out loud. Interpret the questions, and answer them, however you wish.

8

Other players may ask you questions or make suggestions on your turn, but whether you answer those questions or include those suggestions is entirely up to you.

9

If you encounter a card, or an answer, that you don't want included in the game, tap the X-card. That content is removed from the game.

10

If you drew a card that is removed this way, simply draw another card. You can "X" a card you drew.

11

You can also pass on your turn. To do so, give the prompt card you drew to the next player, and say: "I'd like to hear your answer to this question."

12

A prompt card can be passed around the table until someone applies the X-card to it.

13

Place the card "The City is under attack? Do you defend her?" in the bottom half of the deck for a shorter game, in the bottom quarter for a longer game.

14

Continue answering, passing, or x-ing cards until "The City is under attack!" is drawn.

15

Each player answers that question in turn. Then, the game ends.

16

Draw a card from the prompt deck and begin your story!

When did you know you'd do anything for the City?

What makes this City unique in all the world?

What about your powers endangers the City?

Who loves you more in the City? The common people or the leaders?

When was the last time the City hurt you?

Why do you think the City trusts you enough to give you this task?

How does the City usually treat people like you. How are you different?

When was the last time the City showed you real kindness?

You made a promise to the City, once. What was it?

Some in the City think you are a greater menace than the rising threat. Are they wrong?

When did you know you would never forgive the City, and why?

What did you do when you first got powers to make the City notice you?

What brings out the City's cruelty?

What do you think the City will do with you after the threat has passed?

The City is not your city. Why do you serve her anyway?

The City lights a fire in you. What is it?

What aren't you telling anyone about the origins of your powers? Why?

What falsehood does everyone else in the City believe besides you?

You suspect someone on your team of betraying the City. Why?

The leaders of the City gave you a special assignment, aside from preparing to face the threat. What was it?

You've accused someone on your team of failing the City in the past. Why?

Why are others on your team jealous of your relationship with the City?

There's a part of the City that no one but you cares about. Why?

You believe the City herself chose you, not her leaders. Why do you believe this?

You broke a promise to the City, once. What was it?

What brings out the City's kindness?

What makes the City ugly, in your eyes?

you forgave an enemy of the City, once. Why?

Who fears you more in the City? The common people or the leaders?

You lied to the leaders of the City about your readiness to face the threat. Why?

What makes the City beautiful, in your eyes?

You sometimes think you might be the City's favorite. Why? And why does this worry you?

When did your family come to the City? What drew them?

How did you discover a secret about the City that no one else knows?

How did the rising threat reach out to you? What was appealing about its offer?

The City thinks more highly of you than you do of yourself. How do you know this.

The City is responsible for the death of someone you loved.
Who? What happened?

You trust one of your teammates absolutely.
Why?

What part of the City do you regret becoming associated with?

The City is under attack! Do you defend her?