

1

Take turns reading each line/card out loud.

2

The world you live in has had an uneasy alliance with the supernatural.

3

But there's been a regime change, and the supernatural aren't as welcomed.

4

Your Reine has decided to have a fiesta, inviting the closest of their thralls, including you.

5

You are part of their family, the ones they trust and love implicitly.

6

You're here for a reason, but they've yet deigned to say what it is.

7

After reading the instructions, you may start pulling from the prompt deck.

8

Go around reading the prompts out loud, and answering them however you're inspired.

9

Your fellow players can ask follow-up questions. But you don't have to answer them.

10

You can always X-Card a prompt, question, or an answer. That is no longer part of the game.

11

If you X-Card a prompt, you can draw another.

12

You can also instead, pass the prompt to the next player to answer.

13

Continue answering, passing, or X-Carding until the Ending Question card pops up.

14

Everyone answers this question, and our story will then be complete.

15

Whoever consumed a piece of vampire media last, or drank a vampiro, may go first.

The hunters are here for your Reine.

Do you take the final bite and fight along with your beloved?

Your Reine only comes to you when they're at their lowest. Why?

Does anyone else know you come from a line of monster hunters?

You've only known the finer things in life. How does your Reine make you feel feral?

Your Reine doesn't drink from you in the same ways as they do the others. What makes you special?

What tradition do you introduce to your Reine and the coven? Do they embrace it?

You've grown closer to another, why have you both kept it a secret from the others? Your Reine?

You discovered a new power within yourself. Have you used it to protect the coven?

How did you find out about Reine's vampirism? Did it strengthen or weaken your bond with them?

You don't trust another kith, why?

Your Reine always picks a fight with you when they're angry. Why?

How much did becoming a thrall change you?

You once tried to leave them all behind. What stopped you? Who, if any, convinced you to stay?

What does your Reine do that makes you feel neglected?

You despise the newest addition to the coven. Why?

What does the coven do that makes you feel loved?

What is it that your Reine does or says that makes you feel like you're the only one?

You discovered another has betrayed the coven. Why haven't you told your Reine?

What makes your Reine different from other Vampíres?

You know the true reason why a kith disappeared. Do you resent your Reine for it?

There's one dish that your Reine loves. Why do you rarely make it?

Everyone thinks your relationship with your Reine is one way but it's not. Why do you keep up the illusion?

You tried to convince your Reine to run away with you and start a new coven somewhere safe. You almost succeeded. What stopped them from agreeing?

What tradition does the coven have that surprises or scares you? Do you participate anyway?

How did it feel moving into a neighborhood full of supernatural creatures? How does it feel that you're one of the only houses left?

How do you keep the coven from falling apart when tensions are high?

Your original family is trying to "rescue" you. What is it that makes you wish they would succeed?

What was it about your Reine that made you fall for them initially? Why are you no longer charmed by that?

What is it about the coven that makes you miss your family?

You trust another kith in the coven more than you trust your Reine. Whom? Why?

Your Reine commanded you into violence for the safety of the coven. Did it awaken something in you? Or do you regret it?

Only the coven has seen your true self. Why have you kept that part of you away from your Reine?

You no longer have love in your heart for your Reine. Who is it that keeps you from leaving?

You knew another of your kith before either of you met your Reine. Did that change your relationship?

When was the last time your Reine drank from you?

Your Reine never spends time with you when another is around. Who is it and why?

You've only known roughness and pain. How does your Reine make you feel soft and fragile?

Who's idea was it for you to become their Thrall? Did you know what that entailed?

How did it feel when you realized you weren't the only one bonded to your Reine?

What is it that your Reine does or says that makes you feel like you're not enough?

Your Reine recently speaks of a full transformation. Are you looking forward to ascending?

Your Reine always seeks you out when they've found someone new to bring in. Why?

You've been in the coven the longest. How does your Reine still make you feel special? Cared for?

What is it about the coven that makes you feel safe?

You know your Reine's true weakness. Do they know you know? Have you told anyone else?

You're the newest into the coven. How did the others make you feel welcome?

You have hidden powers that can block your Reine's powers even as a thrall. Why do you play along?

What was the reason you were last punished by the coven?

Everyone reminisces about something you don't remember. Why does your Reine look uncomfortable?
